PROFILE

Zoë's practice covers all areas of individual and collective employment law. She appears regularly in the EAT and has appeared in the Court of Appeal and the House of Lords. She is well known for her effective cross examination of witnesses. She is described in the Legal 500 as "tenacious on her feet and understanding of her clients" and by Chambers and Partners as "conscientious and direct".

Zoë handles a wide range of complex claims ranging from multi claimant equal pay litigation, collective redundancies, whistleblowing, and construction industry blacklisting. She also deals with high value discrimination cases and cases where there is a cross over with personal injury such as stress at work.

Zoë has experience of internal and professional disciplinary hearings acting for practitioners and employers including the police, accountants and teachers.

Zoë receives instructions from a variety of sectors such as education (including universities and local authorities), health care (including NHS trusts and GP practices), police and fire services, retail, construction and financial services.

Zoë also undertakes judicial review work which involves employment related issues for public sector clients.
