Inquests & Public Inquiries CV

Victoria's Inquest practises wide-ranging, acting on behalf of bereaved families, corporations such as the Jockey Club, insurance companies and public bodies such as Local Authorities and Network Rail.

Drawing on 20 years' experience as a personal injury specialist for both claimants and defendants, Victoria fully grasps the competing interests of families and corporate/ government bodies in an area of law that can be both complex and daunting for the individuals concerned.

Two cases of note concern an individual who was dragged by a racehorse whilst out on the gallops and a train driver who was killed whilst walking on the tracks.

In the former case, Victoria was instructed to attend on behalf of the Jockey Club with a view to advising on future safety issues within the racing industry.

In the latter case, she was instructed on behalf of Network Rail, representing them as an Interested Person at the inquest into the death of a train driver working for English Welsh and Scottish Railways.

Victoria is happy to be involved at any stage, from advising on the scope of the Inquest, procedure and preparation of key witnesses, to future health and safety recommendations and the likely success or otherwise future personal injury claims.
